GLENCOE INVITATIONAL WELCOMES PELOTON AS TITLE SPONSOR AND STONEX AS PRESENTING SPONSOR, INTRODUCES MEN'S PROFESSIONAL EVENT AS PART OF 28TH YEAR

Top invitational tournament to host North America's best aspiring male and female professionals and amateurs – June 13-15, 2024

CALGARY, AB – The Glencoe Golf & Country Club has partnered with oil and gas software provider PELOTON as the title sponsor and STONEX as presenting sponsor for the 28th edition of the Glencoe Invitational, June 13-15, 2024. As part of its commitment to grow the event, the top invitational golf tournament in Canada will host the best current and aspiring female amateur and professional golfers and will align the male division with male amateur and professional golfers from across North America.

“We are very excited to be able to continue the success of the tournament creating opportunities for women and men to aspire towards their dreams. Golf is a growing sport in Canada and growing the game while supporting diversity and equality is important,” said Glen Gray, President and CEO, Peloton.

“Whether it's in golf or business, always challenging oneself to get better resonates with Peloton's core values. Providing women and men an opportunity to compete on a proven competitive golf course is a perfect fit with the goals of our community investment program.”

A first-of-its kind event in North America with the addition of men's professional division

With the addition of the men's professional division, the tournament completes its master plan of creating an event to support the highest and most inclusive level of competition on Canadian soil.

The low two females will both receive exemptions to the 2024 CPKC Women's Open at Earl Grey Golf Club in Calgary, AB in July 2024. The low male amateur will be competing for an exemption into the ATB Classic in Edmonton June 24-30th, 2024. The female purse is $60,000 CDN and the male purse is a minimum of $30,000.

“Canadian golf had a momentous year in 2023 and the time is right to welcome male professionals as this event continues to develop players and sets the stage for Canada’s rising stars. With these exciting enhancements, we are building on this tournament’s meaningful legacy and are proud to create a first of its kind event in North America,” said Tournament Chair Dale Goehring.

“Having Peloton and StoneX agree to support us as title and presenting sponsors, as well as the partnerships we have with Golf Canada and other sponsors provides us the strength to build the Glencoe Invitational into one of best golf tournaments on the continent with its unique structure.”

Established in 1984, The Glencoe Golf & Country Club will provide a challenging test for both women and men according to Ash Chadha, General Manager of The Glencoe Golf & Country Club.

“On behalf of the members and staff of The Glencoe Golf & Country Club, we are very supportive of the event and what it means to Canadian golf,” said Ash Chadha, General Manager. “The Forest course will be a great test for both men and women and we are very excited to host this unique annual event which helps grow the game.”

About The Glencoe Golf & Country Club and the Glencoe Invitational

Since 1984, members of The Glencoe Golf & Country Club have had the opportunity to play just outside the Calgary city limits and are proud to be the first Robert Trent Jones Jr. courses in Canada. With 45 beautiful and challenging holes, a knowledgeable staff create a lasting impression is made on everyone who plays there.

The Invitational was established in 1992 to allow for high level men's tournament golf to be played prior to our national provincial championships. The Glencoe Invitational is listed on the World Amateur Golf Rankings. The World Amateur Golf Ranking System ranks the top amateur golfers in the world on the basis of their average performance in counting events on a rolling cycle over the previous 52 weeks.

The Glencoe Invitational field of players is made up those in the top 30 Male and Female Canadians on the World Amateur Golf Rankings plus other highly ranked tournament finishes. Previous male champions include Graham Delaet (2005), Mackenzie Hughes (2011) and Jared DuToit (2016). Other notables that have played in the event include Taylor Pendrith, Austin Connelly, Adam Svenson, David Hearn, Adam Hadwin and recent PGA Tour winner Nick Taylor. To date, 75 former participants are now playing on various professional tours around the globe. The tournament is played on The Glencoe Golf & Country Club Forest course, designed by Robert Trent Jones, that was last ranked at number 51 in the 2022 Score Golf Top 100.
